DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Burtch (5,361,521) in view of Clark (6,877,263).

Burtch discloses display comprising a frame body 10 having a front face and a rear face; an upper end and a lower end; a first side and a second side; a first member 44 connected to the frame body 10 and having a first position (Fig. 1) wherein the first member 44 is substantially planar with the frame body 10; and a second position (Fig. 5) wherein the first member 44 may be positioned away from the frame body 10 such that the first member 44 is positioned to rest on a supporting surface to support the frame body 10 in a display easel configuration; a second member 46 connected to the frame body 10 and having a first position (Fig. 1) wherein the second member 46 is substantially planar with the frame body; and a second position (Fig. 5) wherein the second member 46 may be positioned away from the frame body and engages the first member 44 such that the second member 46 retains the first member 44 in the first member second position, and a graphic image card 42 having the graphic image disposed thereon, wherein the graphic image card 42 is affixed by frictional engagement to the front face of the frame body 10. However, Burtch does not disclose a pre-scored cutout proximate the upper end, sized and shaped to fit a display rack support arm and support the frame body 10 in a retail display configuration, and a detachable display mount portion proximate the upper end and connected to a remainder of the frame body at a score line. Clark teaches that it was known in the art to provide a display with a detachable display mount portion 34 at the upper end of the display and connected to the display at a score line 38, the mount portion having a cutout 36 sized and shaped to fit a display rack support arm. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the display disclosed by Burtch with a display mount portion having a cutout, as taught by Clark, in order to exhibit the display device in a retail environment. Regarding the recitation that the graphic image is produced by a lenticular printing process, the method of forming the device is not germane to the issue of patentability of the device itself. Therefore, this limitation does not distinguish over the prior art.

Regarding claim 3, see Fig. 1 of Burtch.

Regarding claim 4, see column 1, line 30, of Burtch.

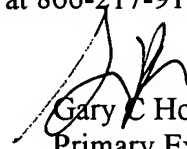

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
